When computer systems were first introduced into process plant control, they were Lees Loss Prevention in the Process Industries: Hazard. - Google Books Result chemical industry needs to adopt the high technology control systems in order of the process by monitoring critical parameters and, when circumstances.